

Dear Friends,

We have had a couple of months since the last overseas trip to do some catching up on our stateside ministries. Two week-long mission conferences have been a big part of our schedule. One was the Mission Emphasis week at Bob Jones University in Greenville, SC and one at Merrimack Valley Baptist Church in Merrimack, NH. We are glad for the opportunity to present our ministry in these places even though there is much planning and preparation necessary. These were rich times of being with friends, meeting new people, speaking in classes and sessions and being ministered to by God through other Christians.

This time at home has also provided the opportunity to resume our nursing home Bible studies, spend more time with Jack's elderly mom, take some dental continuing education courses needed to maintain Jack's dental license, and visit some supporting churches. Jack has been trying to finish his Master's degree in Cross Cultural Studies at Northland International University and so he was able to fit in an on-line course toward that end.

Looking forward, we are thankful that in just a few weeks we can be together as a family for Thanksgiving. We look forward to having our children with us for that special day. They are a great blessing and encouragement to us. With their busy ministry schedules, as well as ours, these occasions are not as often as we would like so they are very precious to us.

Although the next ministry trip (Cameroon, West Africa) does not take place until January, the planning for that trip and others in 2012 has been ongoing. The last week of January the team will head out for two plus weeks of ministry both in the bush villages of Northwest Cameroon and also in a prison in the Foumban area. God is doing a mighty work there in the hungry hearts of the African people.

Preparations for March ministry on the restricted island of Ulithi (in the outer island chain of Yap) are progressing well. The team is being assembled and details are being worked out for a two week ministry there. Please pray that God's Word would be as gratefully received on Ulithi as it has been on the island of Fais. There, a Bible believing church has been planted, through medical missions, with a trained national pastor who grew up on that island. It is our desire to see this work of God repeated on Ulithi.

Our 2012 travel calendar has filled up fast. We have field team ministries for ten out of the twelve months in various stages of planning at his point. Several trips are to repeat locations, but God seems to also be opening doors for us to get into more restricted locations. We would appreciate your prayers for wisdom for the many decisions that need to be made along the way for each of these trips. Pray also for physical stamina, especially for Jennifer, as she plans on slowly getting "back on the road" in 2012.

We are grateful for the faithful group of prayer warriors who help bring the light of the gospel to dark places. You play a vital part in this ministry. Thank you so much for all you do for us!

Ulithi, Micronesia

Sincerely in Christ,

Jack and Jennifer

Jack and Jennifer Mitchell

Prayer Requests:

- Wisdom in planning the 2012 ministries
- Safety in the many miles of travel
- Wisdom in managing Jennifer's RA as she resumes ministry
- God's provision for all that is necessary to effectively minister
- Additional health care workers to be a part of the ministry
